

of this note Mr. Santelmann reopened the case and had May file the charges again.

Two "ping pong" pictures of Mrs. May and Conen, smiling, were introduced as evidence and identified by Lieutenant Santelmann as the ones Conen exhibited to prove that Mrs. May was as much to blame as himself. District Attorney Baker renewed his efforts to have the letters and notes introduced as evidence. Justice Stafford said that he would read the contents of the missives before admitting all of them. It is likely they will be read to the jury this afternoon, when it is expected the Government will close its case.

May Reach Jury Today.

Attorneys Fulton and Gibbs Baker, representing Mrs. May, will probably call one or two witnesses in rebuttal. It is thought the case will go to the jury either late this afternoon or tomorrow morning.

This is the sixth day of the trial. Mrs. May has borne up well under the strain, but today she betrayed much emotion while the servant girl, Florence Holland, and Lieutenant Santelmann were on the stand. When the colored girl told of Mrs. May's drinking with Conen, and her familiarity toward him, the defendant flushed, lowered her head and moved restlessly in her chair. For the first time since the trial began Mrs. May suggested questions for her counsel to propound to the jury. The testimony of the Holland girl was by far the most damaging that has yet been introduced against Mrs. May.

Afternoon Session.

When court reconvened at 1:30 o'clock Louis F. Lippe, a machinist in the navy yard, said he saw Mrs. May after the shooting. He declared she appeared very calm.

Harry T. Burton, the man who testified on the first day of the trial, was recalled. He said Mrs. May did not appear much excited, but answered questions rationally.

Harry Diodi, who witnessed the shooting and testified on the first day of the trial that Mrs. May's hand shook perceptibly after the tragedy, said there were no other evidences of nervousness. He declared she appeared to be sane to him.

Francis Tolson, also a witness on the first day, said Mrs. May told him to be very cool. Asked if he thought her sane or insane, at the time of the shooting he said he did not know.

Detective John C. Smith, of the Fifth district, said he saw Mrs. May in the station immediately after the shooting. Smith said that in the reply to the question if she had anything to say about the shooting, the woman said: "He got just what he deserved. Exhibits 27 and 28 talked about me." She refused to say anything further until she had talked with her attorneys. Smith was afterward cross-examined by Attorney Fulton for the defense.

Identify Letters Written to Conen By Mrs. May

During the progress of the May trial yesterday afternoon, after some discussion by counsel, Justice Stafford allowed the District Attorney to put exhibit 29, a scrap of a letter, in evidence. This was admitted by Mr. May to be in his wife's handwriting. Exhibits 27 and 28 also identified by May as having been written by his wife, were also allowed to go in as evidence.

Lowen C. Horton, a handwriting expert from Trenton, N. J., who said he was employed by the Government in the Dreyfus trials, testified that he spent three hours yesterday examining the seventy-five or more letters found in Conen's trunk by his mother. Witness was asked if, in his opinion, all the letters were written by the author of exhibits 27, 28, and 29. He replied in the affirmative. Another expert was called to the stand, but Attorney Fulton conceded that the latter would say the same as Horton.

Conen's Mother Identifies Letters.

Mrs. Josephine Conen, the aged mother of the slain bandman, said the letters were received by Lucien, and on one occasion he took her to the Zoo to look over the batch for the purpose of selecting one that would convince Lieutenant Santelmann that Mrs. May was making the overtures.

Gen. George F. Elliott, commandant of the Marine Barracks, testified that the note reading "Please meet me in the little park at 2 or 2:30 o'clock, and fix yourself for a good lecture, because you hurt my feelings last night; don't forget to meet me Thursday," was written by Lieutenant Santelmann the day before the shooting. General Elliott said Mr. May admitted to him that the writing was Mrs. May's.

Harrison Brown, a colored boy, testified that during the summer of 1906 he took a note from Mrs. May to Mr. May.

Witness said Mr. May asked him who was with Mrs. May. Brown described her companion as "a young man with a clean shaven face and reddish hair." Witness declared May followed him to Mrs. Altman's house, where Mrs. May and Conen are said to have gone.

The boy said since the trial began Mr. May endeavored to get him to go to the office of Mrs. May's attorney.

"Has Mr. May said anything else to you since this case began?" the boy was asked by Assistant District Attorney Turner.

"Yes, sir. He said he was not afraid his wife was going to leave him that day she sent the note. He just thought she wanted to be with Conen."

Best Witness for Defense.

Dr. Charles Clark, alienist from St. Elizabeth's Hospital, proffered as a witness for the defense. He finished his testimony at the afternoon session.

"Do you think Mrs. May is insane enough, or has ever been insane enough, to warrant her incarceration in an asylum?" asked Mr. Baker.

"Yes, at times," replied the doctor. "Epilepsy deteriorates a person 75, does it not?"

"Yes."

"Have you noticed any deterioration in Mrs. May since this trial began?"

"No."

Dr. Clark was rigidly cross-questioned as to the difference between hysteria major and epilepsy. District Attorney Baker devoted all his time and energy to show that Mrs. May's trouble was hysteria major and not epilepsy, but this could not be shown by Dr. Clark.

Dr. Osler His Authority.

Asked what authority he had for one of his beliefs, Dr. Clark cited Dr. Gelup, Dr. Osler, and others.

"How old are you, Dr. Clark?" asked Mr. Baker.

"Forty."

"Then, according to Dr. Osler, you have reached the limit of your usefulness?"

"I should say you had, too, but we have exceptions to Dr. Osler's rule in the medical profession."

Just before adjournment Justice Stafford instructed District Attorney Baker to turn over all the letters and notes to Messrs. Fulton and Baker, in order that they might familiarize themselves with the contents of the missives, and be prepared to make their objections in court today without delay.

TENANTS BURN WHILE SNOWS BALK FIREMEN

One Killed, Thirteen Hurt, Scores Homeless Following Fire in Boston.

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—Fire which raged for five hours early today through a block of tenements in Roxbury, killed one man, injured thirteen persons, and left 150 homeless and destitute, besides causing a property loss estimated at $150,000. The blaze was started by a hot air explosion at 1 a. m. in Hunt's department store. It spread with such rapidity that most of the tenants had to flee in their night clothes.

James Gault was overcome by heat and gas and died before he could be taken to the City Hospital.

Mrs. Kate Glass and her three-week-old baby are in a very serious condition at the hospital.

Owing to the deep snow the firemen worked under difficulties. Many thrilling ladder rescues were performed. The building where the fire originated was a total loss. A number of firemen are in the hospital as the result of falls from slippery ladders.

BURY THOMAS FAIRFAX IN ALEXANDRIA TODAY

Thomas Fairfax, of 1702 Church street northwest, a grandson of the ninth Lord Fairfax, died suddenly of heart trouble Monday morning at his home. Mr. Fairfax was fifty-seven years old and had lived in Washington for about twenty years.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon from St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Alexandria, Va. The Rev. P. P. Phillips, rector of that church, will conduct the services and the body will be buried in the Fairfax family lot in the St. Paul's churchyard.

Thomas Fairfax was born in Alexandria, Va., in 1850 and lived there until he was about twelve years old, when his family removed to Richmond, Va. Mr. Fairfax lived in Richmond for twenty-four years.

When President Arthur was inaugurated, Mr. Fairfax came to Washington as a clerk in the Treasury Department and has been serving in that capacity since. He is descended from one of the oldest Virginia families and had been prominent socially both in Richmond and his own home of Alexandria. Two sisters, Miss Jane Carey Fairfax and Mrs. J. A. Moncure, and one brother, Ethelbert Fairfax, survive him.

M. S. FREAS' FUNERAL SET FOR TOMORROW

Funeral services for Millard F. Freas will be held tomorrow at Geier's undertaking establishment and burial will be made in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Mr. Freas' death occurred yesterday in the Homeopathic Hospital after a two days' illness of pneumonia. Mr. Freas was fifty-three years old and unmarried. He is survived by two brothers, Allen and Levi S. Freas, of Brightwood.

At one time Mr. Freas was a printer, and was employed on the old Critic. Ill health forced him to give up this work, and he moved from Washington to Brightwood, where he has since resided. He was one of the best known printers in Washington.

LECTURE ON LIFE'S DRAMA.

The Rev. Ulysses Pierce, pastor of All Souls' Unitarian Church, gave an interesting illustrated lecture for the benefit of the Washington Club last night. His subject was "The Drama of Life," in which he spoke of the early discoveries and scientists, and their struggle for the enlightenment of the world.

BUILDING PLANNED AT E AND 11TH STS. N. W.

The property at the northeast corner of E and Eleventh streets northwest, owned by the National Capital Brewing Company, will shortly be improved by a three-story brick building to be constructed after plans drawn by Didden & Son, architects. The first story will be occupied by stores, while the upper floors will be fitted up as apartments. The lot has a frontage of 45 feet on E street and 60 feet on Eleventh street, and is at present occupied by some antiquated buildings. The cost of the improvements will be in the neighborhood of $25,000.
